

Class Code

We would like to take this opportunity to ask you, the teacher, to make every attempt to motivate your students to embrace this code, to always remember to “love thy neighbor as thyself” and to exemplify Christ in all their activities. The best way is to model these behaviors yourself. The second way is to read this outline to the class. The third, but not final, suggestion is to take advantage of opportunities to commend students who demonstrate these behaviors.

The Lighthouse should be an enjoyable experience for every participant, students and teachers. In order for this to be possible, we all will be following some basic guidelines for behavior. I promise to respect you, your thoughts and feelings in what I say and do. I will love you as brothers and sisters, always wanting the best for you. I have made it my goal to show you the kind of respect and love that I am expecting you to show to me and the rest of the class.

1. In all things we wish to glorify the Lord.
2. The teacher in this class is in charge. The students will submit to the leadership of the teacher. Every member of the class will show respect to the teacher in conversation and conduct.
3. This building and everything in it is shared with the school. Property, furnishings and supplies must be treated respectfully.
4. No student may be unattended at any time. All students will stay with their teacher, an adult assistant unless other arrangements are made.
5. Appropriate and modest clothing must be worn at all times. Parents and children are asked to become familiar with the enclosed dress code and follow it at all coop functions.
